

screamfeeder take you apart press release October 2003

There are many ways to rock, and Brisbane's Screamfeeder have mastered them all. From the simple downbeat strumming, hypnotic keyboards and incisive lyrics of now I don't feel so bad to the punked up smash fest of needles.

From the classic bluesey strut of "and tigers they roam" to the unrelenting sonic slab of bunny.

From the Who-like maelstrom of I don't know what to do any more to the neo-gospel love affair of you and me, Screamfeeder have sharpened their chops and come up with a killer album.

The whole record has a fresh, alive, and vibrant feel, and producer Magoo reckons it has "classic" written all over it.
